Dakota Great Teaching Retreat

May 17-20, 2011 • Medora

This small retreat (limited to 35 people) brings college teachers together to learn from each other and exchange teaching ideas and solutions. In spite of what the name might suggest, the seminar is not so much an assembly of ‘great teachers’ as it is a group of dedicated educators in search of the ‘great teacher’ within themselves. With no experts or keynote speakers, the seminar is based on the principle that teachers are the experts in teaching and learn best from one another. The seminar maintains a “retreat” setting with scheduled periods of free time when you can be with family or non-participant friends. If you are interested in attending, please contact your NDCCC representative for more information.

Registration Deadline: April 22, 2011

All the details in a confirmation letter.

And, it’s all inclusive. We’ve got you covered partner!

Come and join the fun!

Faculty Professional Development Awards 2010-2011

The focus of the Faculty Professional Development Award is to help faculty receive the training or resources needed to be more effective teachers. All faculty members (including part-time and adjuncts) are welcome to apply for an award to attend workshops or conferences where the emphasis is on methods of teaching and learning rather than on specific fields of expertise.

This award is either for individual faculty development or a group approach with a common goal. For example, research into new or innovative instructional strategies, the development of new teaching materials, or utilizing resource personnel to bring state of the art methods to courses.

Application DEADLINES: Individual Awards: October 1, 2010 or February 14, 2011
Group Awards: December 1, 2010

Application available at www.ndccc.org
